DETAILED ACTION

1. Receipt of the Request for Continued Examination ("RCE"), filed December 22, 2003 with the corresponding amendment amending claims 1, 18, 19, 21-23, 25, canceling claims 2, 3, 15, 20, 24 and 26. Claims 1, 4-14, 17-19, 21-23, 25 and 27 are pending in the application and are presented to be examined upon their merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 18 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The word "type" is indefinite because it is not clear to how to evaluate to what extent it is being used within the context of the claim. Moreover, the word "type" has several definitions that change the scope of the claim and thereby making it ambiguous.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. Claims 1, 4-14, 17-19, 21-23, 25 and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tom (US 5,696,907) in view of Maggioncalda et al (US 5,918,217) and Ching (US 6,078,901).

Re claims 1, 18, 19, 21-23,

Tom discloses, a method of evaluating an application for an financial product (see Tom, Abstract), comprising:

receiving application data (see Tom, col. 3, ll. 43-62);

calculating, based at least in part one application data, expected loss data (see Tom, at least col. 2, 9-24);

Tom discloses making an approval decision based on the return on investment (see Abstract), but fails to disclose an application approval decision is made based upon comparison of a calculated ROI for the application with an expected ROI for the product. Maggioncalda discloses a financial advisory system for making approval decision for a recommended set of financial products based upon calculations of the highest investment return via one or more decision variables (see fig. 3, col. 8, ll. 9-14; col. 8, ll. 51-56; col. 15, ll. 51). It would have been obvious for an artisan of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to integrate the aforementioned feature of Maggioncalda into Tom because an artisan at the time of the invention would have found such integration useful in further evaluation and assessment of risk for a particularly minimize loss and maximize return on investment. Furthermore Ching discloses a specific return evaluation is given where the rate of return is compared to the expected rate of return before a decision is made (see Ching, fig. 13, col. 37, ll. 38-51). It would have been obvious for an artisan of ordinary skill in the art to have used the calculation of Ching in the invention Maggioncalda because an artisan at the time of the invention would have recognized such a calculation as an art recognized equivalent as well as an alternative feature Maggioncalda and Tom to assess risk and rates of return. Thus such a modification would have been an obvious alternative well within the ordinary skill in the art.

Art Unit: 3624

Re claim 4:

Tom discloses wherein application data includes at least one of a collateral identifier, credit related information and payment information (see Tom, col. 3, ll. 40-62).

Re claim 5:

Tom discloses wherein the calculating expected loss data comprises; executing an account level loss forecast model; executing a terminal event model; and calculating expected lost data in response to the executing of the account level loss forecast model and the execution of the terminal event model (see Tom, col. 6, ll. 47+)

Re claim 6:

Tom wherein executing an account level loss forecast model further comprises: calculating future value for an item of collateral associated with the application (see Tom, col. 6, ll. 47+).

Re claim 7:

Tom wherein and calculating expected loss data further comprises:

Art Unit: 3624

Storing product tier data identifying a plurality of product tiers, each product tier established based at least in part on loss data associated with different product terms each product tier identifying product terms:

executing a risk model to compute a credit risk associated with said application;

executing a risk model to compute a credit risk associated with said application;

assigning said credit risk to a product tier based on said product tier data; and generating probabilities of one or more of said termination events occurring before said expiration form one or more termination scenarios.

Re claim 8:

Tom discloses the calculating a return on investment further comprises: forecasting the severity of loss of the termination scenarios to form one or more loss scenarios;
calculating net income and annualized net investment for the loss scenarios;
determining expected net income and expected annualized net investment in response to the calculating; and determining expected return on investment based on a ratio comprising expected net income and the expected annualized net investment (see Tom, col. 6, ll. 47+).

Re claim 9:

Art Unit: 3624

Tom disclose wherein generating probabilities further comprises generating probabilities of said termination events occurring in relation to a plurality of the payment times (see Tom, col. 6, ll. 47+).

Re claim 10:

Tom discloses forecasting the severity of loss of the termination scenarios for at least a plurality of payment times (see Tom, col. 6, ll. 47+).

Re claim 11:

Tom discloses financial product requires an item of collateral and wherein said forecasting comprises: forecasting a current balance on book; forecasting a market value of said collateral; and calculating a difference between said current balance on book and said market value of said collateral (see Tom, col. 6, ll. 47+).

Re claim 12:

Tom discloses wherein said forecasting a market value is performed using at least one of; Winter's multiplicative time series estimation; or an exponential decay between a manufacturer suggested retail price of the collateral and a residual value of said collateral at the expiration 9see Tom, col. 6, ll. 47+).

Art Unit: 3624

Re claim 13:

Tom discloses wherein the financial product is a lease (see Tom, col. 6, ll. 47+).

Re claim 14:

Tom discloses wherein the termination events comprise at least one of: repossession with delinquencies, early payoff, insurance loss, and repossession without delinquencies.

Re claim 17:

Tom discloses a computer-readable medium bearing a computer program containing instruction steps such that upon installation of the computer program in a general-purpose computer (see Tom, col. 2, ll. 18-21).

Re claim 27:

Tom discloses an apparatus for evaluating an application for a financial product, apparatus comprising:

A processor; a communication device coupled to the processor, receiving application data from at least a first user, etc... (see Tom, col. 6, ll. 47+).
